

Travel Into A Book

Have you ever wished you could travel into a book? Books introduce us to wonderful places. A setting is when and where a book takes place. Sometimes settings are real, like Virginia, where Judy Moody lives and sometimes they are imaginary, like Idaville, where Encyclopedia Brown lives. Sometimes the author does not tell us the setting. Sometimes a setting can be a city, farm or even a town like Plainview. Write a story to tell what happens and draw a picture of your trip.
